About me I was admitted to study in Kuang Yaming Honors School, Nanjing University in September 2018. After studying General Natural Sciences for one freshman semester, I declared Computer Science as my major. Through the training of my course in the previous two years, I have aquired the basic knowledge about computer science field and the ability to solve the problems independently. Since my learning of computer science begins, my passion towards it has never faded, so I would very much like to dive deeper into the area and keep studying.
